

Boschendal Wine Estate

Boschendal, nestled in the picturesque Drakenstein Valley just outside Franschhoek, holds the distinction of being a national monument. The estate offers guided walking farm tours that provide insights into the farm's rich history, regenerative farming practices, and sustainable gardening techniques.

A notable feature of Boschendal is its commitment to land restoration, with over 500 hectares of the property meticulously rehabilitated. This extensive effort serves to protect and preserve indigenous trees such as yellowwood and stinkwood, while also fostering a thriving ecosystem for a diverse range of birdlife and wildlife, contributing to the conservation and sustainability of the region.
